

MARION COUNTY READY FOR BIG PRIMARY VOTE

Heavy Registration Indicates
Unusual Interest in Tuesday's Contests

NEW RECORD MADE

518 Absent Voters' Ballots Establish High Mark in Local Election History

Marion county voters will go to the polls Tuesday to make selection for the primary candidates for the November election. That the primary vote will be large as any primary vote in the history of the county, if not larger, is a prediction of election board officials and political leaders.

Approximately 410 persons have established a new record. This figure based on the number of voters who were registered last Friday and Saturday. Sixty-five voters were absent from the precincts and 423 were Republicans.

Registration Heavy

Another indication that the primary will be large is the fact that 410 persons registered last Friday and Saturday. This number is considered large, as only those who have moved from one precinct to another are required to register at this time.

At the sixth ward led all precincts in the city in number of registrants. Ninety-nine names were added to the precinct records. At the sixth ward also led all precincts in the number of absent voters. Twenty-nine ballots were cast for the precinct to be counted at the primary cast ballots Tuesday.

Polls Open at 6:30

The voting places in the city and county will open at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday morning and will remain open continuously until 6:30 Tuesday night. The votes will begin immediately afterward. An unofficial count of the votes will be made at election board headquarters on East Center st. as the poll books are returned there from various precincts.

No poll books have been erected at the election board offices and the poll books for each precinct will be posted as they are returned. The room will accommodate only a limited number of spectators.

Final List

The following names complete the list of those casting absent voters' ballots:

Wm. D. Owens, 830 Meikle ave.; J. M. Lee, Prospect north; Carter J. Lee, 184 Lender st.; Byron B. Lee, 272 Hume ave.; Royal R. # CHURCH BARRED TO DEBATE OVER TALK

Straton Is Willing To Meet
Al Smith at Another Place

New York, Aug. 13.—Dr. John Straton in a new statement of his proposed debate with Gov. Al Smith over the statement by the pastor that Governor Smith was "the deadliest of moral progress and political wisdom in America today" bars the use of Calvary Baptist church, of 15th st., Straton is the pastor, as a place of meeting.

Previously Dr. Straton had accepted the challenge of the governor and would repeat the charge and allow the governor to answer him in the city of Calvary church provided the place could be repeated in St. Patrick's church, at the same time he expected that a larger audience, than at Madison Square Garden be obtained for the discussion in order to accommodate the large crowd that would be attracted.

In Dr. Straton's latest statement he said that his former acceptance of the challenge was made in a "fanciful" and that under no circumstances would he permit his own church to be used for a purely political discussion.

Dr. Straton says he stands ready to meet Governor Smith at any other place and at any time except on the "floor" of the city. It also is understood that the trustees of Calvary church are refused to permit the debate in the church.

COURT PLANS HEARINGS IN TRAFFIC CASES

More Than 700 Alleged Stop
Street Violators Divided into Groups

50 EVERY HALF HOUR

Municipal Court Clerk Announces Schedule, To Start
Wednesday

Two hundred and fifty automobile drivers of Marion will appear in municipal court Wednesday morning on charges of violating the stop street traffic ordinance. John H. Powell, clerk of the court, stated today.

Hearings for the first group of a long list of alleged violators who fell into the net placed by police at the various street intersections of the city last week, will start at 8:30 o'clock. The group has been divided into sections and 50 will appear before Judge William R. Martin every half hour.

Marionites First

Because of the large number of alleged traffic violators now listed on the court docket, only city residents will be given a hearing at the first session of the special traffic court. Hearings for those residing in the county and other points in the state, will be held on the following Wednesday, according to Clerk Powell.

The list of motorists on the court docket continued to swell over the week-end. The additional license numbers collected by the police Saturday, Sunday and this morning, bring the total to nearly 700, according to officials.

Special traffic court sessions will continue to be held on the ensuing Wednesday until the entire list has been given a hearing. Clerk Powell stated today. The regular traffic court session at which hearings for the usual cases take place continue to be held on Friday.

Names and address of the owners of the cars are being checked at the Marion Auto Club from the license numbers collected by the police. Notices for the time of appearances are being sent out by municipal court clerks.

Today ended the first week of the campaign against stop street violators by local police. Last Monday more than 200 license numbers were secured and daily additions to the list have been made since that time.

A special warning for every motorist on the list to appear at the time his case is called for hearing, has been issued by Judge Martin. Those who receive notice and fail to appear in court at the time their cases are slated will face prosecution in being escorted to the police headquarters by a uniformed policeman, Chief of Police Thompson has stated.

Injuries in Crash North

Five youths had a narrow escape from serious injury and possible death about 11:30 o'clock last night when the steering wheel of the Ford roadster in which they were riding became disconnected and the auto ran into a ditch four miles north of Marion on the Bureyas rd.

The three cars were taken to Marion by the wrecking car from the Albert Bros. garage.

BLOWS TO PIECES

Gar Wood's New Boat in Ruins in St. Clair River

Algonac, Mich., Aug. 13.—Miss America VI, Gar Wood's newest and most powerful speed boat, built to defend the Harborsworth trophy, was in ruins in the north channel of the St. Clair river today. The boat split to pieces while traveling at a speed Wood estimated to be the fastest any hydroplane had ever gone.

Wood was at the wheel. He was not injured. His mechanic, Orin Johnson, was thrown against the exhaust pipes and badly cut.

The engine and a considerable part of the boat sank.

The Miss America VI was launched Saturday and the accident occurred on her second trial run.

Thousands Have Sung His Songs But Famous Writer's Body is Unclaimed

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 13.—Two generations have sung his songs, "Asleep in the Deep," "The Bell in the Lighthouse," "Only a Bird in a Golden Cage," "Splash Me," and others.

Two generations have applauded his dramatic art.

The name of Arthur J. Lamb is known in almost every home in this land. Yet today his body, cold in death, lay unclaimed in an undertaker's shop with prospects of a pauper's burial in a potter's field.

The hand that wrote the famous songs and the later ones "Out of the Dark With You," and "Into the Dawn With You" is stiffled. Lamb came here from New York to negotiate with a Providence man over the production of his latest play "Why Widows Worry." Stricken with embolism above the heart, he was taken from his hotel room to Miriam hospital, where he passed away.

To his pockets were found $3.00, a 15-cent movie ticket and an uncashed check for $100 on a New York bank, supposed to be for royalties for some recent song.

FINAL WORK IS DONE TODAY ON BOULEVARD

Harding Memorial Project One of County's Most Important Improvements

Following completion of work on the Harding Memorial bld., early this afternoon, the thoroughfare will be open for traffic Tuesday, according to an announcement of officials in charge of the paving today.

In charge of county engineers and D. B. Wilson, of the Federal Asphalt Co., at Hamilton, final work on the paving of the boulevard was started two weeks ago. It has been paved with asphalt 1,000 feet east to the west boundary of the Vernon Heights section.

The north side of the boulevard had been completed before noon today and a gang of asphalt workers equipped with two rollers was expected to complete the south side of the boulevard this afternoon.

Workmen of the Vernon Heights Road Co. began laying the foundation for a continuation of the asphalt paving from the Harding Memorial bld. to Leetonia av., a distance of about 100 feet, this morning. The remainder of the Vernon Heights bld., from Leetonia av. to the present pavement near Vernon Heights park will be constructed of a two-course, water-bound macadam paving with a concrete curb.

The Harding Memorial bld., being completed this afternoon is surfaced with sheet asphalt with a sand stone curbs. It represents a cost of $40,000 to the county and city.

Today's final work on the boulevard completes what is generally regarded by officials and citizens as one of the most important and essential improvement projects contemplated in Marion county in recent years. It stands as a notable addition to the beautiful memorial to the county's most distinguished son and all citizens of the county share in the credit of having helped make the improvement possible. It is pointed out, officially approved.

Favorable reports as to the condition and the progress of the work have been given by state highway officials from the Columbus testing laboratory in Marion today and expressed his approval of the chemicals used in the construction work.

The Harding Memorial bld., was supposed to have been completed last Tuesday but due to a delay in the arrival of a shipment of asphalt, work was held for four days, last week, of delays said.

William Little, county road inspector, was in charge of the construction of the boulevard. One of the engineers from the Marion County surveyor's office has been on the job supervising the work daily.

DONAHAY CALLS ON VOTERS TO CAST BALLOTS

Says Nomination of Proper
Candidates Will Guarantee
Worthy Officials

CAMPAIGN ENDS TONIGHT

Begg and Turner To Talk at Toledo, Cooper Over Station WLV

Columbus, Aug. 13.—"The most effective guaranty of the election of worthy officials is the nomination of proper candidates by each of the political parties," declared Gov. Vic Donahay today in a proclamation urging all Ohio voters to cast their ballots at the primary elections to be held throughout the Buckeye state tomorrow.

"If each party nominates wisely, the government will be conducted faithfully, regardless of the result of the subsequent general election," Donahay's proclamation continued.

"The state is, and many of its citizens are, fortunate in being fairly equally divided in the national political parties," the governor said. "The result is that it is relatively easy to turn the reins over to the party in power in state or local subdivision. It is doubly easy to select faithful servants with values of confidence. Such a condition always has on public officials an influence conducive to clean, fair, honest and efficient government."

Candidates seeking the nominations to be made at tomorrow's primaries for state, congressional, legislative, judicial, and county offices as well as for various local positions were putting the finishing touches to their respective campaigns today.

Donahay Campaign Tonight

Major public interest apparently centered in the contest between Congressman James T. Begg, Indianapolis, and J. Cooper, Cincinnati, and Attorney General Edward T. Turner, Columbus, for the Republican nomination for governor. Begg and Turner are scheduled to make their closing campaign speeches tonight at Toledo while Cooper is to broadcast an address tonight from Cincinnati over WLW radio.

Interest in the contest for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination was heightened by an attack on the part of supporters of Congressman Martha L. Dwyer, Kent, of the Ohio Anti-Slavery League, were asked to immediately annul the league's endorsement of Dwyer for governor on the ground that Dwyer had endorsed Gov. Al Smith for president. Bloom's candidacy for governor also bears the stamp of the league's endorsement. Officials of the league are expected to announce the result to page 5.

VIC TELLS SHERIFF TO PERFORM DUTIES

Activities of Athens County
Official Investigated by Donahay

Columbus, Aug. 13.—"You will at once personally perform the duties of your office or resign so that a sheriff who will enforce the law may be appointed," reads a telegram sent today by Gov. Vic Donahay to William Williams, Athens, sheriff of Athens county.

"My national guard observers in Athens county report that you have consistently failed to carry out the duties of your office and have made on conscientious effort to maintain law and order," Donahay wired Sheriff Williams.

The governor's telegram, it was stated, was the result of a report submitted by officials of the Ohio National Guard who reported an investigation conducted by an aviator said to have been made at 1 a. m. Aug. 8, last, upon Mack Woodruff, night watchman at the Ohio Collieries Co., mine No. 206, Holaday, by two men. Claim was made that Sheriff Williams failed to make any arrests or to take any other action in the case.

Woodruff, it was stated, told the governor's "observers" that one of his subalterns beat him with a club while the other "covered" him with a pistol after threatening his life. While making their getaway, the two men fired five shots all of which hit the building in which the summit occurred. Another shot hit the machine in which Woodruff drove away from the mine. It was stated.

FISH IN TROUBLE ONCE

BY KARL M. McILROY Sports Editor The Star
PAGE DAIRIES, champions of Toledo semi-pro circuit, looked like any amateur team when they finished nine innings of ball playing at Lincoln diamond Sunday afternoon. Not that it was anything unusual, the locals won, 7 to 3.

Pitcher Wilbur Fish had his off day, the first that has been noted since he started tossing them across the plate and elsewhere for the Eagles, and the cow chasers managed to get seven hits. This was the only burst of baseball prowess that the visitors were able to uncork in nine innings. Three hits and a walk in the seventh frame counted for two of the three runs while the first was obtained in the initial round from two errors.

Mr. Fish, however, was never in any serious danger of defeat as his teammates and given him a plenty big lead to work on. The locals were chalked up in the next time up and in the third and sixth innings the finishing touches were put on the game as far as scoring was concerned.

Rowan and Pine Star
Rowan and Pine grabbed off all the honors in slugging the old pill. The former was perfect. He got three singles and a double to hit 1,000 per cent with one sacrifice being marked up. Pine did not do so good getting but three hits in four trips to the plate.

Rowan started the game by singling. Cowley died out and Brown made first on an error. Price gave right field a little workout and Sharrock followed him with a double that scored Rowan. Brown and Sharrock both scored on Pine's single through second.

Pine had quite a time getting his throwing arm straightened out in the second inning and as a result one of the Toledo team's three runs was scored. Arday, the headoff man in the second frame, made first on the ball throw and wide second. Pine then tossed bad to third and the run was scored.

Get Two in Second
In the last half of the inning Steinbeck was safe on the first baseman's error. He was picked off at second when Fish bunted to the pitcher Brown singled and Cowley filled out to short. Brown's single scored both men.

Steinbeck's sacrifice after getting a double and going down to third when they muffed Kiker's grounder. Fish started things moving in the sixth by getting a walk. He was sacrificed to second by Rowan and scored on Brown's double. This completed the Eagles' scoring for the contest.

Toledo Good in Seventh
The Toledo nine had its big inning in the seventh when two runs were scored before a man was out. Arvey walked and Dembow followed with a single. Wells' double scored two runs.

Sherlock Holmes Disguise Used by Tunney in Escape

SOUTH BRISTOL, Me., Aug. 13.—Eluding a squad of newspapermen by a series of stratagems including the "cornering" of the local boat market by the mother of his wealth, Gene Tunney left John's Island last evening and today was speeding to New York to the Star Harbor express. Wearing a disguise which included spectacles, the retired heavyweight champion boarded the train at New-castle a few minutes before the baffled reporter arrived at the station following a wild automobile ride of 14 miles. Tunney had been in seclusion at the summer home of his fiancée, Miss Josephine Lawler, on John's Island. He was scheduled to leave for New York late today, but last evening reporters learned that an earlier departure had been decided upon. Attempting to hire a boat to reach the island, they discovered that Mrs. Lawler had paid all the boatmen a small fortune to tie up their boats indefinitely, thus enabling Tunney to get to the mainland without fear of detection by the newspapermen. The reporters offered the boatmen tempting sums for a skiff, but all in vain. One of the boatmen, Ernest Atley, said Mrs. Lawler had paid him "40 times as much" as he could get from the scribes. Interviews with other boatmen revealed that the entire boat market of South Bristol had been "cornered."

After reaching New York today Tunney is expected to arrange his business affairs preparatory to sailing for Europe, where he will make a walking tour with Thornton Wilder, the novelist, as his companion. He leaves Thursday on the Mauretania.

SEES DOWNFALL OF ARCHAIC REGULATION IN OLYMPIC EVENTS

Head of College Association Believes Time Ripe for Change

"HAD ITS CHANCE"

General Believes Schools Should Have More To Say About Coaches

BY DAVID J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—In a few chosen words not exceeding 100,000, Brig. Gen. Palmer A. Pierce, professor of the National College Athletic association, today sounded what he intended to be the verdict of A. A. U. domination of amateur athletics, to be general, and American Olympic competition, to be specific. The rule of the favored few is about over, he insisted, and while he declined to lay the blame for American track failures directly at their door until he could learn the particulars, he somehow neglected to indicate that he felt these failures would injure his case.

"The time when a few men in the east can sit down in an office on lower Broadway and run the country's athletics by dictating right is past, long since," the general declared. "That was a condition that did very well in the old days when most of the competitors were in the east and, therefore, received direct attention and supervision. Times have changed greatly since then, but A. A. U. goes right on dominating under the old rules and regulations."

Time For Revolution
It was General Pierce's expressed thought that, the A. A. U. having had its chance and failed, the time was ripe for a supervisory revolution that would unseat the "archaic" form of government now in the saddle and install a few new faces with new and better ideas.

Both the men and their ideas would come from the colleges, the latter being almost nationally represented in Pierce's organization. The colleges supply 90 per cent of the athletes who comprise the American Olympic track and field team, yet have little or nothing to say about the activities of that team, he stated.

Among other things, he felt that the selection of the Olympic coaches should have been in the hands of a more widely representative committee. In brief, he intimated that star chamber proceedings were in order when these nominations were voted upon.

Colleges Should Have Say
"It is not my intention to offer criticism of what happened in Amsterdam until the fact is established that criticism is deserved," he added. "However, I am well acquainted with what happened here before the team sailed. The colleges should have had something to say about the men who were placed in charge of their athletes. They had absolutely nothing to say about it, although we were much more adequately represented in the Olympic association this year than ever before."

"I am not complaining about the men who were selected. They are good men as their records prove. However, I think an old hand like Stagg's could have been used to advantage in Amsterdam. He is recognized everywhere as a great handler of men and our Olympic teams need plenty of handling. The fact that the coaches were named without what we would term representative consideration is the source of our objection. One of our representatives in the Olympic association never attended a meeting because he never was notified to attend. He wired the first time to say he couldn't be there and after that he was ignored. So were seven of the eight members of the team selection committee in one notable instance."

"No, the few men of the east had to rule and now the end of that rule can't be far off. A few more failures and it might end automatically."

COLETERS HERE

JOHNNY RISKO MAY SIGN WITH DELANEY

Cleveland Believes He Should Not Have To Go Through Tourney

New York, Aug. 13.—Promoter Dick Dunn of the Olympic boxing arena in Detroit is due here today on a mission that may keep Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, out of the preliminary bouts in the New York elimination tournament to determine the next champion. Dunn will attempt to sign Risko to box Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn., for a fight in Detroit late in November, after Sept. 7, when he meets Horace Wright, Nebraska negro heavyweight, in a bout at Omaha. Risko plans to take a month's rest and does not intend to fight again until December with the possible exception of the Delaney go. Risko is said to feel that he, and not Tom Heeney, should have been selected to fight Gene Tunney this year and that it is unfair to ask him to go through another elimination tourney.

Lead of Carolina is Sliced in Contests With Rivals

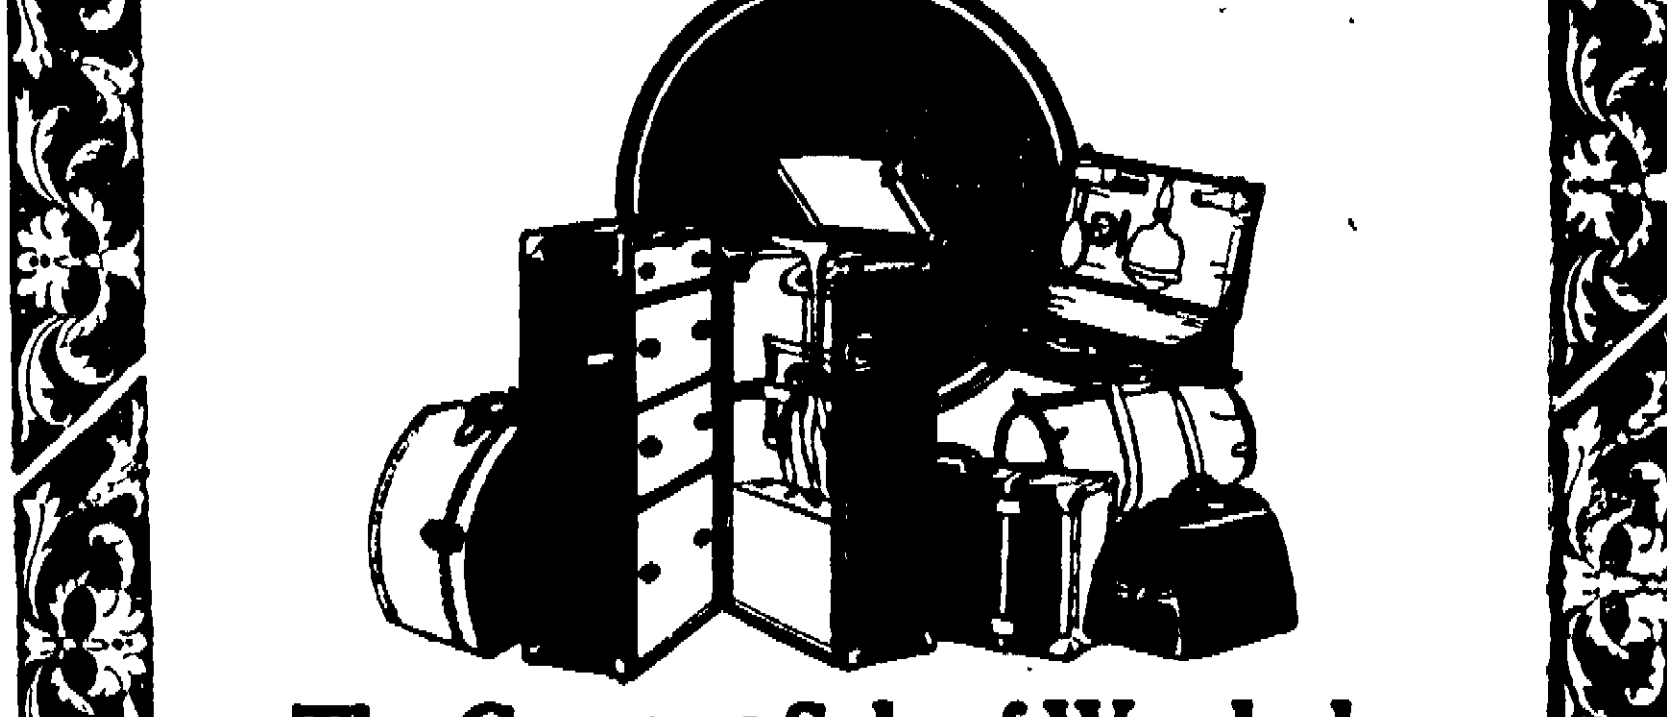

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Reeling under savage attacks by three rival clubs, the St. Louis Cardinals today are in the throes of a slump as bad as the one from which the New York Yankees have just emerged. With six defeats in their last eight starts, the Cards lead the fast-stepping New York Giants by only 2½ games. And they have lost one more game than the New Yorkers, who did not play yesterday. The Cubs put the bee on the Cards again yesterday, winning 4 to 2 behind the fast-ball pitching of Patrick Devlin Malone. Home runs by Hack Wilson and Kiki Cuyler caused Flint Rhem to swallow his wad of chewing tobacco and unified the big mountaineer clear into the clubhouse. Wilson's homer was his 27th of the season but Sonny Jim Bottomley of the Cards kept pace with the Cubs' cherub by walloping No. 25.

Rally In Stock Prices Again Handicapped By Lack of Funds

New York, Aug. 12.—The rally in stock prices was again handicapped today by the withdrawal of funds from the market and the high bond rates for both time and call money. Professionals who attempted to push the ball rolling upward at the start of the new week found little interest in the market and, on the other hand, moderate rallies in the stock and specialty stocks in the general offerings of stock.

That the perplexity increases in the market problems is quite evident from comments of the brokerage firms in the financial district. No satisfactory explanation has yet been given of the mid-August eight per cent call rate. This is the time of the year when funds are seeking borrowers from stock market borrowers seeking funds to the impression prevails that the money lenders could lower the bars to the borrowers if they wished to do so. On the other hand, operators are reaping a golden harvest on their collateral loans and big operators are reported to be making more than 6 1/2 per cent for their money.

U. S. Steel common sold at a new high for the movement at 14 1/2, the first period, and Wall Street was unable to determine if this was a genuine buying movement for the "big" or a professional gesture made for the purpose of giving the market

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Comparatively few changes were noted in local produce markets today despite the usual slump in prices for Saturday's business. Bananas were back at the usual price of four pounds for 25 cents after selling at a special quotation Saturday. Oranges were selling at 65 cents a dozen and watermelons of poor grade were being quoted at 50 cents each.

A decided slump in the sale of vegetables was noted on the local markets in the last week. Largely due to the hot weather, fruit was preferred to the green produce articles, dealers say. While the sales on a majority of the fruits flourished, the market on apples was slow according to local dealers.

A few home-grown peaches appeared on the market Saturday. Georgian white peaches, which have predominated the market for the last several weeks, will be off of the market before the end of this week dealers say. Prediction that the cherries would disappear from the local markets before the end of the week was also made by fruit vendors today.

Home-grown plums for canning are slated to appear on the markets this week, according to a prediction of the dealers. California plums were selling at two pounds for 25 cents today. Home-grown potatoes continued to sell at a higher quotation than the shipped-in variety following a good sale, reported last week. The home-grown variety was selling at 28 cents a peck and the imported variety at 20 to 25 cents.

Markets on meats and provisions was reported steady on the local markets today.

What Was Your Water Bill Last Month?

Considerable campaign propaganda has been submitted to the voters of this district using the Public Utility question as a political football. It has been our intention to avoid any discussion of that question in seeking the nomination of Mr. Knapp, and except for unkind intimations it would have received no recognition here.

George B. Knapp, as a Republican candidate for Congress, has refused to be a party to any unkind references or inferences in his campaign, and no candidate has ever conducted a cleaner campaign in Ohio.

It is regrettable that Mr. Mouser's committee saw fit to make some misleading and unfair inferences in last Saturday's Star, in reference to public utility matters in Marion, which makes it necessary to publish this advertisement, and recall to the citizens of Marion, the truth as it exists.

What does the 'Mouser Franchise' mean to Marion?

There are 6,000 families in Marion who were paying a minimum of $8.00 per year for city water when Mr. Mouser became City Solicitor.

Today those same families pay a minimum of $18.00 per year.

This increase of 125 per cent is a burden placed on every family in this city, and the Franchise under which the Water Company is empowered to collect these rates, was written by Mr. Mouser, while city solicitor of Marion, in Mr. Mouser's own office.

This Mouser Franchise was easily acceptable to the Marion Water Company and was put through the city council by the then City Solicitor, Mr. Mouser.

The Franchise covers a period of ten years and means an additional expenditure to our present population of $600,000.00, an increase of $100.00 per family during the life of this agreement.

Is this Mr. Mouser's idea of Courageously handling the public utility question?

We do not in any manner mean to convey the idea that Mr. Mouser was other than strictly honest, in permitting this tremendous increase in water rates to become effective, but we do mean to present the situation as it actually is and add, that very often when a public utility rate schedule, which should be handled in a business like manner, becomes a political football it is the public that pays.

George B. Knapp can be elected in November. George B. Knapp has received the open endorsement of The Marion Star and the LaRue News, and is the only candidate for congress who has been so endorsed in this, his own county.

He has the endorsement of the Marion Central Labor Union, as "Satisfactory" to the organized trades.

His position on the 18th Amendment, the Volstead act and Law Enforcement has been declared satisfactory by the W. C. T. U. of Ohio and the Ohio Anti-Saloon League and this position has been satisfactory since the beginning of this campaign.

The Republicans are concerned in nominating a man who can return this district to the Republican column.

What we need today is common courage, common sense and common honesty.

Nominate George B. Knapp tomorrow.

We can win with Knapp in November.

THE KNAPP FOR CONGRESS COMMITTEE
Major Chester C. Roberts, Chairman.

700 YEARS and 12 MILLION DOLLARS

The combined experience of the twenty-five stores in the Century Furniture Associates is 700 years!

The buying power represented by these twenty-five stores is twelve million dollars!

Can you wonder then that we are able to offer you the finest furniture to be found anywhere in the country? Do you wonder then how our prices can be so moderate?

The furniture manufacturers of America come to us with their choicest designs and offer them to us at their lowest possible prices because they know the tremendous quantities in which we buy. Twenty-five experts from Ohio to Massachusetts study each item and O. K. only those which represent the utmost in Style and Value.

All of the price advantage, all of the style advantage, all of the advantage of freshness and newness of the chain store is offered you. Yet each store retains its own management, its own individuality and its own friendliness.

Daily Proverb—"Fortune, when she caresses a man too much, often makes him a fool."

Judging by news stories from Massachusetts, there are a lot of Republicans over there who are a bit resentful that young Miss Pharaoh ever took Moses from the bull-rushes.

Two Germans Friday broke world records made by them two days before. One glided 46.6 miles and the other glided to an altitude of 2,542.6 feet. Man may yet make the discovery that he's a bird.

As the campaign progresses, it may be noted that the number of those who quadrupled lift themselves out of obscurity temporarily by bolting this or that ticket has not been measurably decreased.

Ontario has started a clean sweep of her border in the hope of seizing millions of dollars' worth of liquor exported to this country and smuggled back into Canada, which rather goes to indicate that the people down this side of the line aren't the only ones who go up against liquid poison.

No matter what may be his other shortcomings, it can hardly be held that Mayor Jimmy Walker, of New York City, is devoid of a sense of humor. He told Chicago reporters that he was going back to New York to rest and then get back to work.

A Democratic candidate for congress out in Illinois, who was sent to make a survey of the South, lists Alabama and Tennessee as "doubtful," which is liable to cause some of the electorate in his district to decide that he's too honest to prove a bright, shining light as a party patriot in congress.

The government report, last week, estimated the crop 153,000,000 bushels greater than was expected in May while the Canadian government added 170,000,000 to its May estimate with the result that wheat dropped to $1.03, the lowest figure since 1923. Here's a forced equalization from which the farmer suffers which he would evade; the greater the crop, the smaller the price.

The Hoover Acceptance.

Mr. Hoover's speech of acceptance of the Republican nomination for the presidency, delivered to an immediate audience in Stanford university stadium of perhaps 75,000 and by radio to millions, was as different from the ordinary acceptance utterance in glorification of party as were circumstances of its delivery from those which have heretofore attended responses to official notifications. It was not an address to the rank of his party, not an address to the party die which forced his nomination, but rather a plain, business-like utterance, to the entire American people—a talk straight to American homes—just such an utterance as might have been anticipated from Herbert Hoover.

Pointing out the fact that the many and mighty problems of reconstruction which the last seven and a half years have offered had been met, and answered, and that the problems of the future were those of construction and progress, Mr. Hoover went into some of the accomplishments of the period—$6,500,000,000 of the national debt wiped out; the reduction of eighty per cent. of the burden of those whose incomes fall under $10,000; the revival of business and industry; the practical disappearance of the 5,000,000 idle of eight years ago; the state of our exports which, even with the depreciation of the dollar considered, are fifty-eight per cent. greater than before the war; the 6,000,000 added telephones installed; the 7,000,000 radios in operation; the 14,000,000 more automobiles; and the doubling of our savings deposits and our life insurance, despite the high degree of spending which has marked the period. He expressed especial pleasure over the greatly increased educational enrollment and the manifestly increased comforts which have come into the American home and held that never before in history has the wage of labor had greater purchasing power.

To agriculture, Mr. Hoover devoted a very considerable part of his address. Reciting its problems and its hardships, he places reliance on the tariff, the development of water transportation and a federal farm body of representative farmers to bring about a correction of the ills from which it suffers. He would have this body clothed with adequate authority and be given adequate means to build up with federal funds a farmer-owned and farmer-controlled stabilizing corporation which will protect agriculture from the demoralization of seasonal glut and periodical depression. The aim, he holds, should be trifling to a people who expended $90,000,000,000 annually. He goes further into water transportation when speaking directly on that subject.

"Nearly all of our greater drainages," he says, "contain within themselves possibilities of cheapened transportation, irrigation, reclamation, domestic water supply, hydro-electric power and frequently the necessities of flood control. But this development of our waters requires more definite national policies in the systematic co-ordination of those different works upon each drainage area."

"We have wanted scores of millions of projects undertaken not as part of a whole but as the consequence of purely local demands. We can not develop modernized water transportation by isolated projects. We must develop it as a definite and positive interconnected system of transportation."

Of prohibition law enforcement Mr. Hoover says:

"I do not favor the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. I stand for the efficient enforcement of the laws enacted thereunder. Whoever is chosen president has under his oath the solemn duty to pursue this course."

"Our country has deliberately undertaken a great social and economic experiment, noble in motive and far-reaching in purpose. It must be worked out constructively."

"Common sense compels us to realize that grave abuses have occurred—abuses which must be remedied. An organized searching investigation of fact and causes can alone determine the wise method of correcting them. Crime and disobedience of law can not be permitted to break down the constitution and laws of the United States."

"Modification of the enforcement laws which would permit that which the constitution forbids is nullification. This the American people will not countenance. Change in the constitution can and must be brought about only by the straightforward methods provided in the constitution itself."

A subtle hit is given too much government in business: "It is the duty of government to avoid regulation as long as equal opportunity to all citizens is not invaded and public rights violated. Government should not engage in business in competition with its citizens. . . . One of the greatest difficulties of business with government is the multitude of unnecessary contacts with government bureaus, the uncertainty and inconsistency of government policies, and the duplication of governmental activities."

There is advocacy of reorganization of government departments looking to further economies; a plea for tolerance; a section given to denunciation of corruption in office; a plea for the care of children; a forceful expression for peace; a splendid exposition of national ideals, what they are and what they must be if we are to attain to the utmost, and a tribute to organized labor in which he says, in part:

"The trade union movement in our country has maintained two departures from such movements in all other countries. They have been staunch supporters of American individualism and American institutions. They have steadfastly opposed subversive doctrines from abroad."

"Our freedom from foreign social and economic diseases is in large degree due to this resistance by our own labor."

And then, offering a glowing appreciation of President Coolidge, both man and president, and the service he has rendered the country during his administration, Mr. Hoover concluded by saying:

"I want to see our government great both as an instrument and a symbol of the nation's greatness."

"The presidency is more than an administrative office. It must be the symbol of American ideals. The high and lowly must be seen with the same eyes, met in the same spirit. It must be the instrument by which national conscience is lived and it must under the guidance of the Almighty, interpret and follow that conscience."

We note that some newspapers are inclined to criticize the Republican candidate for matters upon which he didn't treat. That objection could be made to any address. If we had criticism to make, it would be that the speech was somewhat long. It might have been more effective had it been shorter, but long as it is, one who starts to read it will go on to its end—it is so plain and understandable, and so interesting throughout.

The director of the observatory on the slope of Mount Vesuvius let himself down into the crater, one day last week, that he might more closely observe the eruption. The world, or at least a considerable part of it, seems to have gone daft on feats of daring.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat deduces from the fact that old King Solomon engaged extensively in the horse business that that is "where he got a lot of material for his proverbs." In support of the St. Louis paragrapher's contention it may be pointed out that the most of Solomon's proverbs show good horse sense.

A Beautiful Highway.

As the Harding Memorial boulevard nears completion, the wisdom of the county commissioners in selecting asphalt as the material with which to construct it becomes more and more apparent, and one realizes more fully how utterly out of keeping with the splendid memorial to our late president concrete paving without curbs, as suggested at one time, would have been.

The beautiful roadway which is soon to be thrown open to the public fits in, as it were, with the surroundings. It matches the highway to the west of the memorial, and is in all ways up to the standard of the artistic taste which marks the embellishment of the memorial site.

We can not be too glad that the county commissioners stood firmly for making the improvement as they did, and we believe that, as time passes, there will be general recognition of the judgment they demonstrated by holding out for the paving material used.

And we are glad for another reason. The controversy over the material to be used made plain that we have, in the county commissioners, men with backbone who can not be influenced and switched from a position which they believe to be right by influences championing economy at a time when every consideration demands quality and artistic merit rather than cheapness.

THE BUSY EXECUTIVES.

One Great Scourge Hangs On.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Some time ago I attended a luncheon, given for the purpose of bringing together a group of persons who might become interested in the eradication of leprosy. There were several addresses. The most remarkable was that of Mrs. Wade, the wife of Dr. Wade who has charge of the leprosy colony in the Philippine Islands.

Mrs. Wade's story was a recital of what can be accomplished in the cure of this dreadful disease. There are 12,000,000 of leprosy in the world and the disease is particularly prevalent in the Orient. But let us suppose the West is free from it. There are several hundred known cases in the United States.

While I was commissioner of health, I sent from New York City, seventeen leprosy patients to the hospital in Louisiana. In several states of the union there are persons with this disease.

It is so common in the Philippines that one of the islands has been set apart as a colony for leprosy. It is a city in itself. Six thousand victims of leprosy reside there.

There are three types of the disease. The form about which most of us have some knowledge is the skin or nodular type. In skin leprosy, copper-colored or dark red patches are observed on the body, face or back of the hands or feet. They go away and then return. After a while the skin becomes thickened and lumpy.

This process, affecting the tissues of the face, produces such a change in shape and appearance as to make the victim look like a lion. The nose and throat are involved, changing the voice and interfering with the breathing.

The nodules may ulcerate, leaving open sores. The eyes may be involved, with resulting blindness. The nervous or smooth type is a little less severe. In this there are patches of dried skin. The nerves of the arms and legs become thickened. In consequence sensation is destroyed. The fingers and toes may drop off.

In a third form we have a combination of both types I have described. All types last for years before death comes to give relief. We don't know exactly how leprosy is passed on from one person to another, but it is regarded as an infectious disease, not unlike syphilis in its transmission. It is not hereditary, but inoculation of the others is quite likely to take place when one member of a family is afflicted.

Funds are always needed to make possible more extensive study of the disease and particularly to supply the chaulmoogra oil which has been found to cure it. Mrs. Wade says that during the past five years 1,000 persons have been cured and sent back to their homes. She says, too, that no less than forty per cent. of the cases are relieved if not cured.

We should be glad to go forward with this work. It will be a great contribution to the cause of humanity, as well as to science. It is dreadful to think of the sufferings of the victims of leprosy. From Bible times this has been a scourge of the Orient.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

C. D. M. Q.—How can I reduce?
 A.—Weight reduction is merely a matter of self-control as regards the diet. Exercise is, of course, essential. For particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

F. E. S. Q.—What causes shingles and what will cure them?
 A.—The exact cause is unknown. An infection or run-down condition have much to do with it.—Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicinal, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. ## Editorial Opinion.

THE MARATHONS.

The cake-eaters, the lounge lizards, the hollow-cheeked sheiks who flit with dapper seductions look palely flaccid and incompetent in comparison with the virile youths who took part in the recent great Marathon over seas.

Taking one event—the Marathon race itself—the clean-limbed, sound-limbed and sound-headed men—an Asian mechanic, an Asian cat driver, a hind who runs a newsstand in a South American city, and an American truck driver, were all men of simple life, outdoor habits, hard workers.

Men who run a distance of twenty-six miles must have a better foundation for resistance than one that is built on hootch and hilarity; no dissipation must be theirs.

Over the countryside they sped, over rural roads and city streets, up grade and down, running, for the most part, freely and easily. The winner came abreast of the tape without evidence of fatigue or strain—did not even perspire. No such for life and habit in the Italian hills, for El Oual is an Algerian Arab. The far-southern newboy finished second with the asthmatic Finn, Matelien, third, the Japanese cat driver, Yamada, fourth, and our own Joie Ray, fifth.

America did not win, though Ray put up a game and commendable fight. But together, these men form a group of physical excellence of which Marathon lovers of the old Grecian days well could have been proud.

It is a fine thing that this ancient formula of physical striving in varied fields of effort is being cultivated and developed in this day. It makes for better feeling between the nations participating, and it spreads abroad throughout the world a stimulus which shall be responsible for the evolution of a race of mighty men in the physical sense. And the activities in the great arena of pugilism by Gene Tunney prove that muscle and brain need not be divorced in the making of a superathlete.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Dinner Stories.

Traffic Cop—"You say you don't like to carry women in the patrol wagon?" Police Chauffeur—"Naw; they always want to drive from the back seat."

"Hello, Smith, I haven't seen you for quite a while. Been away on vacation?"

"Yes."

"How long a vacation?"

"Well," replied Smith, "I didn't keep track myself, but my wife did and she said it was exactly 947 yawns."

"What sort of a bathing cap would go best with this suit?"

"Oh, just go bareheaded, dearie, if you want the appropriate thing."

"The man who doesn't give up is the success in life," remarked the Thoughtful Guy.

"Yes," retorted the Wise Guy, "and the man who doesn't cough up is the failure in married life."

"I have only ten minutes, and I hardly know where to begin," said the speaker.

"Begin at the ninth minute," suggested a bystander.

Science from Zion.

BY GARRETT P. BERRYSS.

Last evening I was reading your article regarding the theory of the flat or round earth. In your last sentence you advise people to think out reasons for themselves or to use their better judgment. I have taken exception to several of your statements. They are as follows:

"You speak of a man going east around the world and thereby coming to his original starting point. In the first place, east and west are at right angles to the points north and south. In going east you would keep the Polar star always on your left. If a person continued in this direction far enough, wouldn't he finally come back to his original starting position? Try this same thing around a post in your back yard."

"Your second statement, about going toward the North Pole star, said it would appear to rise higher in the air as you approached. Did you ever look at any object suspended in the air and as you approach it will appear higher, and at any of these times the whole of this object may be seen through a field glass? The same applies to railroad tracks, which appear to merge in the distance."

"Regarding your third statement, in reference to a ship disappearing at sea. Have you ever tried this? I have. With the naked eye, the ship does appear to lower into the water, excepting the masts, the whole ship can be plainly seen with a telescope. Men on only referring to a few of your statements, but the others can be refuted with very little effort. I am not a student of this subject, but I have tried to use my own judgment and good sense, and I can not believe that I and all of the people on this earth are whirling around at the tremendous speed and great number of directions that the learned (?) scientists are trying to tell us that we are.—Zion, Illinois."

1. When you walk around a post in your back yard, the post will appear to revolve around the yard at the same angular speed with which you move, keeping opposite to you and passing over in succession the various things that mark the background, such as house, trees, fence, bushes, etc. But when you go eastward around the earth the North pole star remains fixed as the pole in the sky, instead of revolving around the whole horizon, and the entire sky remains similarly fixed. This shows that you are not walking around the Pole star as you walk around the post.

2. Have you any conception of how near the Pole star would have to be if it behaved like your "object suspended in the air"? If you go northward one degree, which would be nearly seventy miles, the Pole star would appear to rise one degree higher in the sky. The most elementary knowledge of mathematics suffices to show that in order that the apparent altitude of the star should thus correspond with the increase of latitude of the observer, the star, instead of being suspended in the air, or situated anywhere near the earth, must be at a distance almost infinite in comparison with the size of the earth. You must go to the North pole in order to see the North star over your head.

3. You are certainly deceived with reference to the appearance in a telescope of a ship that has sunk below the horizon all except its masts. I, too, have seen ships in that position, many times, and I assure you that if they are far enough away to be hull down as seen with the naked eye, they will appear hull down through a telescope. A deception may easily arise from the inability of the eye to detect the hull when it is on the horizon. The glass, by magnification, reveals it clearly; but if you continue to watch it with the telescope you will see it sink and disappear, and the masts will slowly sink after it. With a telescope I have more than once seen the masts of a distant ship appearing without the hull, as if stuck up like poles in the sea.

I treat this "flat earth" idea thus seriously because I think it a pity that it should be permitted to mislead the young and the uneducated.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

New York, Aug. 12.—Diary of a modern Peppys: Up and to the Warwick to see Ted Cook, the California humorist, who expected he brought his wife with him because he thought it would look better. And to talk of this at a time when Los Angeles is smogged. Worked a while and to see Dr. Guy Campbell, the dentist, and drove him to his office at Dobb's Ferry and surprised to see what changes in the Hudson valley in the past few years and later drove on to Sleepy Hollow, a well-named and sojourned peacefully. In the evening to Emil Fuchs studio with others and met Janet Gaynor, the cinema player. Home where I found a strange white dog had strayed into my apartment and was sound asleep side by side with my dog. So to bed with both of them.

No street in Manhattan bubbles with activity like Delancey—East Side's Broadway. Everywhere is a merchant eager to small boys who circulate among the motorists with trays of home-made candy. In the patch of park in the center the old folks seek a little comfort. The benches are filled with old bearded men and wigged women who have a dull wistfulness for the new world in faded eyes. In the street is the Libby, the largest Jewish hotel in the world, which features the novelty of Turkish bath cabaret at night.

Sidewalks are honeycombed with little portable stands, many of which sell a famous East Side delicacy—parboiled salted watermelon seeds. Celery beer is the favorite tipple. There are kosher cafes where patrons who stand at wall counters are served one-third cheaper. Among the picturesque street musicians the subway kiosks are a blind accordion player and a Gypsy violinist with rings in his ears. Tired housewives trudge along with capacious market baskets. All wives of merchants wait in the shops and children frolic about everywhere.

The financial soundness of this slice of the Ghetto is displayed by many banks. Under the lower end of the Delancey Street bridge is the famous push cart market, a rabble from daylight until dusk where every imaginable household article may be purchased.

Around Rivington and Chrystie street, the shops and sidewalk stands sell single cigars—or any number desired less than a package. This is a concession to slim purses of new bootblacks and errand boys.

Streets of the Ghetto are the children's playground. They make no effort to avoid dangers and the burden of responsibility upon trespassing drivers. And was behind the luckless driver who goes through the narrow streets carelessly. He finds himself the target of a shower of sticks, stones and over ripe vegetables.

Allen street, which is a hive of bread pounders and their wares, has a basement coffee shop that serves a long horrible smelling Turkish cigarette with each cup of coffee.

A Broadway variant for asking a friend "tear a herring" is to invite him to "shuck tamale".

At a Fifth avenue wedding which is said to have cost a certain party $45,000 the bride receiving guests wore knickerbockers, powdered wig and slippers with rhinestone heels. ## The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Don't make any mistake about youth. It is great to be young. There are no substitutes for youth. But youth hasn't everything. It is youth, but not enough. Business managers make the mistake of putting youth in places of too much responsibility, of ditching old age for the added pep of the young. Youngsters have pep, but sometimes they have not much more. It's a mistake to turn old just because they're gray around the temples. That may be just when they're at their best. Just when they're setting good. Leaders need the sure touch of the veteran. He was along England, was a veteran. He was along years. Foch was an old man. So was von Mennchen. Lord George was not young. So was his mark when he was between six and seventy.

Speaking of age and youth, where would I turn for the ripest and the soundest judgment? Who are the great statesmen of America? Shall we not include Charles Evans Hughes? Elihu Root? Hughes is sixty-six and Root past eighty. Andrew Mellon is seventy. Youth can run and not be weary, but not always in the right direction.

The old prophet tells us of those who shall "mount up with wings like eagles. They shall run and not be weary. They shall walk and not faint."

That's fine. It's great to be able to fly on eagle. It's great to be able to run and not be weary. As the years come on, the problem with most of us—all of us—is to walk and faint.

Are we living now so that tomorrow we walk and not faint?

Mr. Tittelbaugh needs no introduction to many of the voters and citizens throughout Marion County. His past training and business experience in various lines qualify him thoroughly for the duties of the office he seeks. His past record as county official was one of strict economy, integrity and faithfulness in the details of the office.

If nominated and elected this coming November he will apply these same methods in the discharge of his official duties as county treasurer. His qualifications, honesty and character are your choice, then vote for E. F. Tittelbaugh for County Treasurer.

To the Voters of Marion County, Ohio:

On next Tuesday, August 14th, 1928, you will find my name on the Primary ballot, as a Candidate for Sheriff of Marion County, Ohio, on the Republican Ticket.

I was born and raised in Marion County and have lived in this County all of my life. I have been engaged in farming and stock raising for the past thirty years, except about two years which I spent with the Marion Steam Shovel Company. I feel that I am fully qualified for this office and my experience as a business man will assist me in this position.

This is the first time I have ever asked for any Public Office and I would appreciate your support and influence, should you think I am qualified and should I will faithfully and honestly discharge the duties of my office.

Sincerely Yours,
